Rebuilding a Marriage

Counseling Services

The hope of saving their marriage was all but gone for Bill and Carol. They said it was like “taking a hammer to our marriage and slowly destroying it.”

They had been married fewer than two years when they realized that they needed counseling. They still loved each other but the light of hope was flickering. Janice MacKenzie, a Licensed Independent Clinical Social Worker in one of Catholic Charities’ district offices, was there to help the couple restore that light.

Janice wanted to know one thing as she started to counsel them; did they have the will to work at rebuilding what was destroyed? Bill & Carol said they did.

“That was what I needed to know. “It’s the old expression: Where there is a will there is a way,” Janice said. “That’s huge.”

“There were layers of issues,” Janice says. “When one got stressed, the other fed off of it. They were not physically abusive to each other but verbally so. The interesting thing about this couple is that they are very compatible. They understand each other.”

Both Bill and Carol had been married before, both suffered through abusive relationships and neither of them had positive role models growing up.

Bill opened his heart to Carol’s two school-aged children and they shared a strong faith. But eventually, small things turned into big things and when the arguing started, it became unbearable.

“Words and behavior can be very sabotaging,” Janice says. “You don’t resolve issues when you’re highly emotional. They are making strides towards their goal of saving their marriage by learning to communicate better and to fight fair.”

Janice continues to counsel the couple, helping them resolve their issues and build on their faith, helping them make their marriage fulfilling and beneficial for the entire family.

“They’re a family trying to rebuild themselves and they’re doing a great job.”

Catholic Charities’ Counseling Services works with couples and individuals for as long as it’s needed, so whatever the issue, it is resolved and people can have a richer, healthier quality of life.

Goals to a Brighter Future

Parish & Community Services

What does it take to thrive in today's society?

The question is simple. The answers are not.

Catholic Charities New Hampshire works with clients to define those answers through Life Plans, a goal-oriented tool designed to give focus, direction and hope. By creating a Life Plan, we assess the clients needs and begin to address any barriers that might prevent the client from leading a life of independence. We also integrate other Catholic Charities programs as necessary and walk with them as they move their lives forward.

"If we are going to live out our mission of moving lives forward, we should have a plan for it," says Catholic Charities President and CEO Thomas Blonski.

Steven Knight, Director of Program and Quality Initiatives for Catholic Charities New Hampshire, said the Life Plan program allows case/outreach workers to take a snapshot of clients and their needs then map out steps to address those individual needs.

Development of the Life Plan program began two years ago and the program launched in February of 2015. Caseworkers and clients evaluate a series of 20 "life areas" as part of the assessment phase.

"Our staff finds that the initial problem is really just a symptom of deeper issues," Knight says. "We have had clients come to us looking for help to pay their rent. Our Life Plan assessment has helped us discover underlying problems that include poor preparation for the job market, a lack of financial management skills such as budgeting, even the existence of untreated mental or physical health issues that prevent the client from working. "

By identifying the root causes, our staff can work with clients to establish a step-by-step Life Plan for dealing with these issues, then clients can move forward. Goals are established, with milestones and timelines to assess their progress.

While an assessment is completed at the time of initial intake with the client. As goals are met, additional assessment can be made to update the Life Plan.

Through community engagement, Catholic Charities Parish and Community Services develop appropriate programs to meet local needs. Many programs are volunteer-driven and done in collaboration with local parishes and the community.

Beyond Healing the Physical

Trinity Health Partners

Robert's life was a fairly routine one. He was a married man living in the North Country, working a steady job at one of the local mills and spending his free time outdoors, fishing and camping.

A knee injury changed all that.

Robert chose St. Vincent de Paul Rehabilitation and Nursing Center for his rehabilitation and it was the emotional support he received during his time there that helped him through some trying times. Due to a serious infection he contracted after surgery, his doctors discussed the idea of amputating his leg below the knee. Robert's condition was not good, mentally or physically.

"He was becoming depressed," says Chad Dingman, the administrator at St. Vincent de Paul.

Robert's wife is bi-polar and the injury's snowball effect was taking its toll on the couple. He lost his job due to his extended absence from work. Consequently, the health insurance he had through his work was terminated.

"They're wonderful people and very religious, but it was just one thing after another," Dingman says. "They were facing all of these challenges."

Dingman and his staff guided Robert through the process of applying for Medicaid benefits and Chad spent hours at Robert's bedside, swapping tales and exchanging pictures of their outdoor adventures.

"We visited daily and I think it helped keep his spirits up," Dingman says. "We talked a lot about faith and goals."

Medicaid helped cover the medical expenses and Robert is now being cared for back home by his wife. He recovered from his infection, avoided amputation and had a second surgery to strengthen his knee. The signs of hope and healing are evident.

"We taught them what they needed to know to be able to keep him home and still continue to heal," Dingman says. "I recently spoke with his wife and we even talked about arranging a fishing challenge in the near future."

Catholic Charities' Trinity Health Partners provide exceptional nursing and rehabilitative care that meets the physical and spiritual needs of those we serve. We offer short- and long-term care in a warm and supportive atmosphere where residents and patients are cared for according to their individual needs.

GIVING PYRAMID

Our Donors

Gifts from Individuals, corporations, businesses and grants from foundations provide core funding that moves lives forward.

Catholic Charities New Hampshire provides programs that strengthen families, communities and builds independence by moving lives forward. We heal, comfort and empower people of all faiths & backgrounds through all stages of life.

Strengthening Families:

- Counseling for couples to overcome stress and/or grief, with a goal of creating a positive relationship that lasts. CCNH provided counseling services to 508 of families last year. Through our three OUR PLACE centers, we provide essential parenting and prenatal education to at-risk teens and young adults to lower the chance of child abuse; we have a typical caseload of 135 clients.
- Our Adoption & Maternity Services work with families through adoptions, home studies and search & reunions.

Building Self-Sufficiency:

- The New Hampshire Food Bank's Culinary Job Training Program graduated 74 students last year.
- Basic Financial Fitness helps to foster basic literacy in managing budgets, savings, smart shopping techniques and more. This new program is being instituted in all ten district offices and the three OUR PLACE locations.

Improving our Communities:

- Our Immigration and Refugee Services helps people on their path towards citizenship, providing expert legal services. 99% of adjudicated cases ended in favor of our clients. Last year, we served 1,200 clients.
- Cooking Matters is a national program that provides nutrition education and gives lessons in creating healthy meals on a limited budget. Last year, 598 people graduated from this program—the largest in the nation—and 71% of the adults are eating more vegetables and 67% of teens are eating more fruits.
- Trinity Health Partners is dedicated to quality care with seven nursing and rehabilitation facilities providing short- and long-term care, assisted living and independent living communities; last year, we served over 500 residents.

We feed the programs that feed the hungry

Hunger knows no boundary. It does not discriminate, affecting people living near the fertile farm lands along the Connecticut River to families located near the bountiful waters of the Seacoast. It surrounds us all, even if we may sometimes be unaware of its devastating consequences.

Robin and John of Hampton struggle to make it through the summer when their two young girls are not in school. They both work, juggling their schedules and their jobs so one can be home to watch the girls because they are unable to afford day care.

During the school year, their girls are provided with lunch, but that doesn't carry over to the summer months. Without the Seacoast Family Food Pantry, an agency of the New Hampshire Food Bank, to provide additional food in those months the girls would not get the nutrition and calories they need.

To the north, in Alstead, Diana is devoted to her three children and her husband, Jim, who has gone through three battles of cancer treatment. Neither Diana nor Jim can work regularly because of the time they spend caring for their children and the down time Jim needs for his cancer treatment.

The Fall Mountain Food Shelf helps provide food during the times the family cannot afford to buy food, especially the fresh fruits and vegetables Jim needs as part of his diet.

"When the family first came to the Food Shelf they were desperate," says Mary Lou Huffling of the Fall Mountain Food Shelf. "They were having to choose between buying food for their family or buying gas to drive Jim to his chemo. He had canceled a couple of chemo sessions because of not having the money for gas to get there."

The Food Shelf provided comfort and relieved some of the family's stress.

"There has been many a day over the years they have left in tears of gratitude for the wonderful supply of food they could get for their family, much of which comes from our Food Bank," Huffling says. "The food we have received from the Food Bank has touched and blessed many lives. We couldn't help our people as much as we do without the Food Bank. It is such a comfort to people who are struggling and don't have food or the money to buy food to know and feel that others care for them and their families well-being. We are all very grateful that the Food Bank provides such wonderful quality food for the needy of our state."

Dear Friends:

You are continuing to help move lives forward with your generosity and support for programs that allow Catholic Charities New Hampshire to serve well over 100,000 people in our state every year. For that, I thank you.

While Life Plans are our newest tool, our ability to help move lives forward is evident in everything we do. Whether it is supplying food to the hungry through the New Hampshire Food Bank or offering comfort and guidance to the elderly at one of our Trinity Health Partners long-term care facilities, it is your commitment - and partnerships - that has allowed us to provide hope to people for more than 70 years.

The stories we have shared in this year's Annual Report are stories of resilience and compassion. They are stories of people who are benefiting from the support of people like you. They are stories of faith. They are stories of hope. They are stories of love.

Peace + God bless,

President & CEO

Dear Friends:

Jesus spoke these beautiful words to His disciples at the Last Supper, just before His passion and death: "I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another." (Jn 13:34-35.) Although it is among the most popular of Bible verses, the full meaning of the love Christ spoke about often escapes us.

St. John the Evangelist wrote in Greek and the original word "agape" has traditionally been translated as "love." But our contemporary understanding of "love" does not accurately convey the fullness and mystery of "agape." "Agape" implies a self-sacrificing love, a love of and from God, whose very nature is love. Today we might say that the word closest in meaning to the original is "charity."

When Christ gave his followers His new commandment to love our neighbor as ourselves, he was telling them—and us—to show charity to all people. As followers of Jesus, we cannot see charity as mere altruism. It is a moral obligation, a divine command, and the mark of a Christian.

Since 1945, Catholic Charities has fulfilled this command by healing the sick, feeding and clothing the needy, welcoming the stranger, and caring for those unable to care for themselves. Today, as you'll see in the following pages, Catholic Charities continues to respond to those in need with programs that heal, comfort, and empower—programs that enable all of us to "love one another."

As Bishop of Manchester, I pray that the perfect love of God in Jesus Christ may continue to inspire a generous response to those in need, and I thank you for all you do in service to our Lord and our Church here in New Hampshire.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Peter A. Libasci
Bishop of Manchester

Harvard Pilgrim Health Care

More than 40 Harvard Pilgrim Health Care volunteers helped build vegetable wash and drying stations, weeded and flipped garden beds, installed an irrigation system, built picnic tables and painted benches at the NH Food Bank's Production Garden in Manchester this past May. Approximately 60 students from Beech Street Elementary School joined the volunteers, planted seedlings to take home, learned about exercise and healthy eating, and participated in healthy cooking demonstrations by chefs from Great NH Restaurants.
