

EMPOWERING CHANGE

April 1, 2016 - March 31, 2017 Annual Report

Bringing hope and healing to the Opioid Crisis

Linda listened quietly from the back of the room during the Catholic Charities program on opioid use and its impact on families. Only when the session wrapped up did she find the courage to speak.

“I have two boys – 50 and 51 – that have been doing drugs most of their lives. Now their children are also doing drugs. And I’m taking care of them,” Linda told the group in a weary voice. She needed help.

She is among the forgotten ones in the state’s opioid epidemic: spouses, parents, children and siblings whose lives are splintering out of control because of a loved one’s addiction to opioids, alcohol, or other substance use disorders.

Catholic Charities Counseling Services had to respond. But how and where? Not from inside their counseling offices, where the stigma and shame often associated with addiction kept people away. They decided to meet people where they’re suffering: in their communities.

A team of four skilled substance use counselors took their “Families Coping with the Opioid Crisis” program on the road, speaking in church halls and basements in southern New Hampshire. At least 150 people attended the five sessions held since late fall. They have requests for more.

“We are here for the people who are left behind,” the Rev. John J. Mahoney Jr., director of clinical services at Catholic Charities NH, told parents and others suffering from the disease of addiction and its impact on the family.

The message behind their ministry of healing and hope is clear: You can’t control a loved one’s addiction. You can only control your response to it. That’s how lives are saved and families are healed.

Counseling Services also launched a Substance Use Services program in response to requests to have more counselors working in the communities. The program debuted late winter with a Master Licensed Alcohol and Drug Counselor assigned to Exeter and Nashua. In Exeter, Catholic Charities and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul Exeter partnered to create a substance use counseling program at the Exeter facility. The Nashua program assists area pastors who need a place to refer people who show up at parishes and rectories seeking help for drug use.

The two new initiatives are among Counseling Services’ efforts to respond to New Hampshire’s crippling opioid crisis, to strengthen families and to move lives forward.

An estimated 10,000 grandparents in New Hampshire are raising their grandchildren largely as a result of the drug epidemic.

Counseling Services offers quality mental healthcare from 13 locations throughout New Hampshire. Our highly competent and caring clinicians possess a full range of professional credentials. They treat a wide spectrum of mental health challenges, including anxiety & depression; life adjustment issues; substance use disorder; PTSD; marital and relationship issues.

How We Moved Lives Forward:

- Developed new programs and hired additional licensed addiction counselors for individual and group therapy services for people struggling with drug and alcohol addiction and informational sessions for families affected by this issue.
- Provided 2,282 counseling sessions across the state.

“Our professional counselors welcome people from every faith tradition and walk of life who reach out to us for help with issues that range from life adjustments to mental-health challenges to drug and alcohol addiction. Every treatment plan provides for the dignity and self-respect of our clients. You are not alone. We can help.”

The Rev. John J. Mahoney Jr.
Director of Clinical Services

Coming 'out of the shadows' to take back their lives

For the last year, Donna lived in a silent world of terror and submission. Unable to work since her visitor visa expired, she became dependent on her American-born husband who threatened her with deportation and never seeing her son again.

Donna feared her husband. He kept multiple firearms and knives in the house. He forced her to sleep on the bare floor. He took away the debit card if she refused him sex. And he removed the plates from the car so she couldn't drive. Donna refused to eat or drink in his presence when he threatened to drug her, drive her to Canada, and leave her there so she couldn't get back.

"He always said, 'You're in my country now and you're doing what I say. If you don't answer my call right now, I'm texting the immigration department and you will be deported the next day,'" Donna said. "When you're here in a country with no visa, you are not going to take that risk of calling his bluff."

Worried for her child, Donna became silent, submissive. She saw no way out.

Then a friend told her about the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). This federal law allows eligible immigrant victims of domestic and sexual violence to petition for permanent residency and permission to work without relying on their abusive spouse or partner. To be eligible, the violence must be committed by a spouse or partner who is a U.S. citizen or permanent resident.

"I thought there was no hope, and then you guys came along. I felt like I had someone on my side. Before that, I was all alone," Donna said of Catholic Charities Immigration & Refugee Services. Legal advocate Basra Mohamed helped Donna obtain her work authorization last spring. This enables her to be self-sufficient and independent of her abusive spouse. Donna's petition to become a permanent resident is pending.

"The work I do here at Catholic Charities really impacts women on a very personal level and allows them to leave the abusive circumstances, to obtain work, and gain control over their lives," Mohamed explained. "It allows women to come out of the shadows and really take control over their lives and their children's lives."

Getting a job changed Donna's life. "I am no longer ... under his thumb. I gained confidence," she explained.

The Domestic Violence Awareness Project said "immigrant women are particularly vulnerable to domestic violence and may feel trapped in abusive relationships because of immigration laws, language barriers, social isolation and lack of financial resources."

Immigration & Refugee Services assists clients with various applications and petitions, including: naturalization; adjustment to lawful permanent residence status; political asylum; family-based visas; and petitions for immigrant victims of domestic violence. We measurably improve people's lives by helping them to reunite with family members and to support themselves and their families.

How We Moved Lives Forward:

- 97% of our domestic violence and sexual assault cases resulted in a favorable resolution for our clients.
- Provided legal services and consultations to 409 clients from 34 different countries, including: Colombia, Dominican Republic, DR Congo, El Salvador, Honduras, Mexico and Vietnam.

“Forced to leave their homelands due to war, famine, persecution, poverty and violence, immigrants seek a basic, humane existence in which they can piece their lives and families back together. Catholic Charities’ immigration legal services assist immigrants to stabilize their lives and become self-sufficient in their new homeland.”

Cathy Chesley, J.D., Ed.D.
Director of Immigration & Refugee Services

Your gifts restore a neighbor's hope, dignity

Doreen found herself between a rock and hard place. She couldn't afford the rent for her apartment, but she couldn't move to a less expensive place until she settled an outstanding electric bill.

Doreen lives on less than $10,000 a year. She and her teenage son ended up homeless.

"I was at my wit's end," she said.

Losing hope, the middle-aged mom turned to Catholic Charities and soon connected with Sister Helene Higgins, the community outreach coordinator at the Rochester district office.

Sister Helene knew this was more than a matter of an unpaid electric bill. Here was a woman who struggled against poverty all her life; someone who never got a break; someone who dwelled, often unseen, on the margins of life.

"I think I was the only person who ever gave her a chance," Sister Helene recounted.

Sister Helene worked with Doreen and the electric company to set up a payment plan that Doreen could manage and still move into a more affordable apartment. She helped Doreen start a Life Plan, a Parish & Community Services program that helps clients identify short- and long-term goals. It also provides financial fitness and other training.

"She looked at me and said, 'Thank you for teaching me all this. Thank you for all your time. But, most of all, thank you for treating me like a human being'."

Doreen is moving forward with her life. She budgets her money and hopes to get a car. Since she lost her driver's license because of unpaid fines 12 years ago, she relies on a bicycle. Rheumatoid arthritis, however, makes it harder for her to get around this way.

Her new home means her son can attend a school system that provides personalized instruction for students at risk of not graduating. "I'm starting to see the light again," she said.

Sister Helene looks back at that first meeting with Doreen as the start of a journey from darkness to hope.

"She looked at me and said, 'Thank you for teaching me all this. Thank you for all your time. But, most of all, thank you for treating me like a human being,'" Sister Helene recounted.

Parish & Community Services staff work in 10 offices throughout New Hampshire to assist vulnerable residents in crisis who've exhausted all other options. Clients typically come to us in urgent need of food, housing, fuel assistance, medical care and other critical services.

How We Moved Lives Forward:

- Provided comprehensive case management services using tools such as Life Plans, financial fitness training and individual development accounts.
 - In our first year, 59% of our casework clients actively enrolled in a Life Plan.
 - In the first year, 98 clients went through financial fitness training. 77% created and followed a budget for 3+ months; 57% were able to lower their grocery bills; 33% pursued additional education and job training.
 - 199 clients saved $38,147 which earned them $205,299 in matching funds from the Community Loan Fund to be used exclusively for education.
 - Provided 625 hours of compassionate, pastoral care.

Poverty harms children’s physical and mental health, and their ability to perform well in school. (American Psychological Association) According to the National Center for Education Statistics, the dropout rate of students from low-income families is 4 ½ times greater than those from higher-income families.

“Parish & Community Services meets people where they are, assists them and helps them move to a situation that is healthier and more sustainable. People are listened to, assisted, and their dignity is affirmed.”

Marc Cousineau
Director of Parish & Community Services

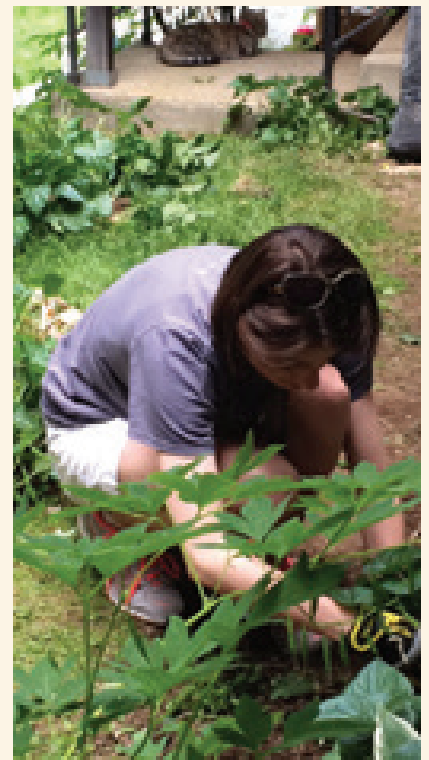

Because of You

- Catholic Charities Social Service programs prevent poverty, homelessness and child abuse.
- Catholic Charities Healthcare Services provide person-centered care that creates a loving and home-like environment for our residents; independent & assisted living; and rehabilitation and nursing care.
- Gifts from individuals, corporations and foundations provide core funding for our programs and services. Through your gifts, you move lives forward.

98 volunteers contributed a collective 493 hours to Catholic Charities from November 8, 2016 - March 31, 2017.

Recipe for Success Cooking Matters

“This class has helped me find inexpensive ways to get the most out of a tight food budget and find healthy ingredients to add to existing recipes, increasing quality and quantity. I truly appreciate such a varied pool of participants. The fact that everyone felt not only included, but valued for the contributions they could make to meal prep was truly special.”

Cooking Matters for Families graduate, Laconia, NH

The NH Food Bank hosts Share Our Strength’s Cooking Matters® program in NH. Cooking Matters empowers low-income families to stretch their food budgets so their children get healthy meals at home. Participants learn to shop smarter, use nutrition information to make healthier choices, and cook delicious, affordable meals. Cooking Matters courses and tours equip families with the skills they need to stretch their food dollars and maximize the benefits.

“As the only food bank in the state of New Hampshire, we are the backbone of the charitable food assistance network. It is an honor to serve our more than 425 partner agencies throughout the state that work directly with residents who don’t know where their next meal will come from in order to positively impact their health.”

Eileen Groll Liponis
Executive Director, NH Food Bank

Because of your generosity, CCNH provided the equivalent of $14,795,861 in free or reduced cost services in FY 2017. Our financial information, audited by Howe, Riley & Howe, is available at our Administrative Office in Manchester.

The mission of Catholic Charities New Hampshire is to move lives forward and, thanks to you, that will never change. Your spirit of giving touches the lives of struggling and vulnerable people throughout New Hampshire.

What constantly changes is the way we carry out our mission.

There is no set formula for helping people, no single way to restore hope. Homelessness, hunger, the challenges of being a single mother, or trying to survive as an immigrant new to this country are all realities that require our help in different ways.

For example, we recently introduced new programs to help address the opioid crisis that has reached epidemic proportions in our state. Our counselors have gone into our communities to offer help to families with our “Families Coping with the Opioid Crisis” presentations. We also provide specialized addiction counseling through our new Substance Use Services program.

Because of you, we can adapt our services to address the issues affecting our state today. These services include the Manchester Citizenship Center, which provided free legal clinics to help immigrants ready to become U.S. citizens navigate the naturalization process.

In these pages, we share a few of the stories of the people you’ve helped through your kindness and generosity. They are moving their lives forward because of you. Thank you!

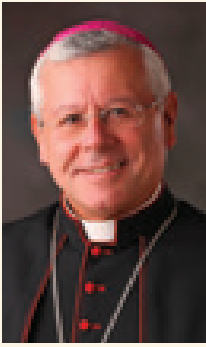

God bless,

Thomas Blonski
President & CEO

“At the end of life we will not be judged by how many diplomas we have received, how much money we have made or how many great things we have done. We will be judged by how we lived our lives: I was hungry and you gave me something to eat. I was naked and you clothed me. I was homeless and you took me in.”

– Saint Teresa of Calcutta

Dear Friends:

“Whatever you did for one of these least brothers of mine, you did for me,” Jesus told his disciples. This beautiful saying exemplifies the Christian mission – and duty – to treat all of our brothers and sisters with dignity and love.

This year’s Catholic Charities New Hampshire Annual Report tells the story of the remarkable difference that your support, caring and concern makes in the lives of the poor and vulnerable in New Hampshire. In short, this is the story of love and charity that Christ commands of his followers.

In these pages, you can see how Catholic Charities fulfills this call by tending to the forgotten and helping those who dwell, often unseen, on the margins of life. You meet Doreen, a middle-aged mother who struggled against poverty all her life. Homeless, she turned to Parish & Community Services where she learned how to budget and gain financial independence. You see how Counseling Services helps families who have loved ones struggling with opioid and other addictions. And you hear from Donna, a mother trapped in a terrifying world of domestic violence by a husband who threatens her with deportation and separation from her child. Immigration & Refugee Services’ staff is helping her to apply for permanent residency and work authorization under the Violence Against Women Act.

Since its founding in 1945, Catholic Charities New Hampshire has served the people of our state by tending to the sick, feeding and clothing the needy, and welcoming the stranger. It is only through your generous gifts that Catholic Charities can carry out its mission to serve, comfort and heal. As Bishop of Manchester, I extend my deepest gratitude for your prayers and generous response to those in need, and I thank you for all you do in service to our Lord and his people in New Hampshire.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Peter A. Libasci
Bishop of Manchester

Thank You! Your gifts allow us to provide high-quality care, legal assistance and mental health counseling for free or on a sliding scale to those who are in poverty or on the brink of poverty.
