

Hope Wins Out

Dear friends,

“If you lavish your food on the hungry and satisfy the afflicted; Then your light shall rise in the darkness, and your gloom shall become like midday.” Isaiah 58:10

As I reflect on the past year, the good work that you have helped make possible stands out like a bright light, bringing hope to those living in despair. With your help, our elderly are being cared for with compassion and dignity, families are being strengthened, and the cycle of poverty is being broken in profound ways.

Those life-changing experiences are highlighted in this year’s Catholic Charities New Hampshire Annual Report, “Hope Wins Out.” In these pages you’ll meet Femi, a proud father who was able to realize his dreams on a number of levels. You’ll learn how Cassandra, through immense challenges and perseverance, was able to achieve her childhood dream of becoming a nurse. You’ll also hear about how an adoption, many years ago, resulted in an emotional reunification.

Since 1945, Catholic Charities New Hampshire has been providing hope and dignity to countless individuals and families through compassionate and caring services. Through that work, our poor and vulnerable neighbors are lifted and empowered. You are the strength and compassion behind that good work, and I am grateful for all you do in service to our Lord and His people here in New Hampshire.

Sincerely yours in Christ,

Most Reverend Peter A. Libasci
Bishop of Manchester

Dear Friends,

Each of us has a story to tell, relative to overcoming adversity or achieving something incredibly important to us. The path to success for those with whom we work is no different. We help them set goals and walk with them as they see – sometimes for the first time – that they can do what they never thought was possible.

What is edifying, though, is the amazing heart and steadfast support of our Catholic Charities New Hampshire community, helping to ensure that those with whom we work are able to break the cycle of generational poverty, secure an education or a better job, and move from despair toward independence. Your support honors the life and dignity of every vulnerable individual who appears at our door. You are helping move lives forward in profound, measurable and impactful ways, which is at the very heart of our mission.

As we reflect on the past year, we celebrate YOU and those who have trusted us to guide them on a better journey. In these pages, we are honored to share the stories of Femi, Joan, Cassandra and Moriah – all who had different goals, hopes and dreams. Through hard work, perseverance and dedication, they are showing others what is possible, and today, we applaud their achievements.

On behalf of those we serve, thank you for investing in our work and ensuring that hope truly does win out!

Peace and God Bless,

When a Mother Achieves Her Dream of Being a Nurse

Since she was a little girl, Cassandra always dreamed of becoming a nurse. After all, her loving and caring nature made her a natural fit.

But like many dreams, Cassandra's road to achieving her dream was not an easy one. No matter how hard she tried, there were obstacles along the road ahead.

Kassandra secured a college scholarship for general education credits, but was short several credits when the scholarship ran out. She and her boyfriend then found out they were expecting. Money became even tighter and suddenly, they were relying on food stamps and Medicaid to ease the burden. While she remained driven and focused, her family was at the point where they were essentially broke. Not only could she not afford nursing school, paying for basic life essentials became a challenge.

The dream felt like it was slipping away – but Cassandra refused to give up, even as she balanced school, work, motherhood and everyday life. When her daughter was six months old, she decided it was “now or never” – she wanted to build a better life for her and her family. But she knew she couldn't do it alone.

Kassandra saw a Catholic Charities New Hampshire poster about a financial fitness class. One phone call is all it took to connect her with Leonard Campbell, community outreach coordinator, at Catholic Charities' Laconia office. Campbell, Kassandra and her boyfriend met regularly, going through their monthly expenses and created a system to better track their spending and uncover opportunities for savings. It was the type of financial education that may seem simple to some but was life-changing for Kassandra and her family.

Using the lessons Campbell taught her, over time, Kassandra was able to set aside enough money to put her back on her path and resume nursing school.

Kassandra graduated this past year, with her daughter proudly in the audience. She is now a registered nurse in the North Country.

It's another dream that came true, but as Kassandra says, one that wouldn't have been possible without the invaluable lessons and support gained from Catholic Charities New Hampshire.

“Mine and my daughter's life will forever be different now,” she says. “If a donor ever wonders if their contribution makes a difference, let me assure you, it certainly does.”

For someone like Kassandra, hope wins out when you refuse to give up, no matter what's in your way.

With the Ultimate Recipe for Success for This Mother

Twelve years ago, Moriah Webster couldn't have envisioned her life being where it is today. Nor did she know the profound impact Catholic Charities New Hampshire would have on her – in more ways than one.

She was expecting her first child, “terrified” as she puts it. She enrolled in the Our Place pregnancy and parenting program, one of many doors Catholic Charities New Hampshire would open for her.

Moriah worked with the Our Place team to cope with the discomforts and emotions she was experiencing with her pregnancy, and help her better prepare for delivery. Her daughter, Madisyn, was born shortly after.

Moriah views the Our Place team as her beacon and saving grace in the early days of Madisyn's life. They helped her navigate the many lifestyle changes that come with parenting and understand how to best care for not only her daughter – but herself, too.

She also took part in a six-week Cooking Matters program, learning how to prepare healthy and affordable meals for her family. It's there she discovered the Recipe for Success Culinary Job Training program at the New Hampshire Food Bank, a program of Catholic Charities New Hampshire. The program helps unemployed and underemployed individuals gain skills and experiences to seek employment in the food service industry. Moriah felt this could be her chance to build a career – and better support her family.

After graduating from Recipe for Success, she worked a few jobs as a cook then later as a chef supervisor for a job training program. But for Moriah, Catholic Charities never felt far away, especially when her phone rang one day and it was Recipe for Success chef instructor

Jayson McCarter. He wanted Moriah to be the program's new production assistant, a role she holds today.

Today, Madisyn is a confident 12-year-old who gets straight A's in school. Moriah, along with the program's production chefs, has worked hands-on with dozens of students, not only sharing kitchen fundamentals and best practices, but also valuable life lessons, many of which were instilled in her during her time at Our Place.

If a student is having a difficult time, she will pull them aside – just like the Our Place team did for her – and share some of the same lessons: Everyone has a bad day. Just because one bad thing happens doesn't mean your day is ruined. Sometimes you need to lean in and rely on someone.

“Without Catholic Charities New Hampshire, people wouldn't have the opportunity to do better things,” Moriah says. “There would be no Our Place or New Hampshire Food Bank, and I would not be a successful parent or have the career I have today. They gave me the confidence to know that everything was going to be okay, and that I could do anything.”

For someone like Moriah, hope wins out when you make the most of the opportunities in front of you.

For This Dedicated Father

It only takes a few seconds to watch Femi with his infant daughter, Divine, to learn that he isn't your typical father.

For starters, Femi jumps at the chance to change diapers in the middle of the night, and enthusiastically picks out his daughter's outfit for the day ahead. He also possesses a steadfast thirst for knowledge when it comes to being the best father possible for Divine, who he lovingly calls his "divine blessing."

This desire for knowledge was born inside the one-story brick house on Oak Street in Manchester, home of the Our Place pregnancy and parenting education program.

Femi and his wife Grace had been trying to get pregnant for a while. After many negative tests and feelings of defeat, they refused to give up. One night, Femi had a dream. In it was a baby with a head full of hair – a baby that was theirs.

A few days later, they got the positive test they were waiting for.

Femi and Grace attended Our Place nearly every week, gaining a deeper understanding of the pregnancy and birth process, from guidance on prenatal care to dealing with normal physical and emotional challenges.

The knowledge paid off. Divine was born in December 2018, and as emotional as he and Grace were, Femi was confident and ready. "Thanks to Our Place, we were well-equipped for whatever was around the corner," he reflects.

Whether it was swaddling Divine to comfort her or holding her a particular way to calm her, Femi knew what to do.

"I believe that if you care for your family, want a better life and do things right, information is your guide," he said. "Our Place helps you better care for your wife and become a more informed and dedicated father."

For Karen Munsell, supervisor of Our Place, Femi and Grace epitomize the goal of the program – to build loving, secure and stable homes for children.

"Femi continues to demonstrate a hunger for continually learning how he can be the best possible father for Divine and supportive husband for Grace," said Munsell. "He cares for her and Grace in every way. Seeing them all together is a beautiful sight."

And guess what? Divine has a head full of hair, just as Femi envisioned in his dream.

For individuals like Femi, hope wins out when you embrace the knowledge handed to you.

For A Sister Reuniting with Her Brother

Joan Brosnahan had a great life growing up. Adopted by Dan and Kay Brosnahan through Catholic Charities New Hampshire, she describes them as the “perfect parents” – generous, positive and loving individuals who embodied the meaning of family.

“I could not have handpicked two people any better to be my parents,” she says.

The Brosnahans were incredibly supportive, whether it was helping Joan and her brother (also adopted) with homework, giving advice for any challenges she was facing – and even offering on many occasions to help search for her birth parents if she chose. But growing up, that wasn’t an option for Joan. She was proud to be a Brosnahan – and had all she ever needed.

In 1991, Joan experienced a series of health issues. Doctors inquired about her family medical history. She reached out to Elaine Langton, coordinator of Adoption & Maternity Services for Catholic Charities New Hampshire, in the hope of finding some answers. Langton mailed non-identifying information with the heights, weights, occupations and nationalities of some of her birth relatives. What struck Joan most was a note at the bottom of the letter. You have a biological brother, three years older than you.

Wow, Joan thought. While it was very much unexpected, it wasn’t the right time to find her brother. Her adoptive father, Dan, had just passed away. Joan was having medical issues and was about to get married.

Life went on and years passed. Joan often thought of the brother she didn’t know, but she still wasn’t ready to open that door yet. That changed in 2016. After a friend encouraged her to look into her ancestry online, Joan was matched with a long list of second, third and fourth cousins. But her mind kept going back to her brother.

Twenty-five years after first connecting with her, Joan contacted Langton again. She was finally ready.

Langton mailed a letter to Joan’s brother, Skip, asking him to contact her. She informed him that he had a sister. Like Joan several years prior, Skip was shocked – but open to meeting Joan.

On a hot July morning in 2017, after more than 60 years, the two finally met for the first time. They cried and hugged, caught up on life and were in awe of their striking resemblance.

From that moment on, everything changed for Joan and Skip. Despite living two hours apart, they now visit each other regularly, joke around and are talking about possibly traveling together. Although they were apart for nearly their entire lives, today they have a strong bond that only a brother and sister can have. They consider each other best friends.

“We have cried together, laughed together, and shared many stories about what we have missed,” said Joan.

Skip agrees. “Getting to know Joan has been a simply wonderful experience. Everything about my life has changed for the better,” he shares. “I hit the jackpot all over again.”

For Joan, hope won out because she found her brother – and she has Langton and Catholic Charities New Hampshire to thank for that.

New Independent Senior Living Community in Windham

Catholic Charities New Hampshire broke ground on Searles Place at Warde, a new 38,000-square-foot senior living community on its Warde Health Center campus in Windham.

The new facility will feature a two-story wing with 21 independent living units, a single-story wing with ten assisted living units and an adjacent carport for resident parking. In addition to modern living and amenities, residents will enjoy various social, cultural, recreational and dining programs. Construction will be completed in late fall 2019.

Mardi Gras Gala Raises More Than $186,000

The 14th Annual Mardi Gras Gala, held on February 9 in Concord, raised more than $186,000 to support New Hampshire residents in need. The signature fundraising event generated 43% more than last year!

Attendees enjoyed an evening of entertainment, fine dining, a live auction and plenty of dancing. A huge thanks to our amazing sponsors, auction item donors and event attendees who, together, proved that we can make a profound difference in the communities around us!

Catholic Charities NH Acquires The CareGivers

Catholic Charities New Hampshire welcomed The CareGivers into its family of programs, building on our wide range of services and support for elderly residents across the state.

The CareGivers, which was acquired in November, is a network of volunteers providing transportation services (Caring Rides), food delivery services (Caring Cupboard) and various forms of emotional support for homebound and disabled elderly across Greater Manchester and Greater Nashua. Through this vital assistance, we help elderly reduce feelings of isolation, maintain their independence and preserve a wish that matters most to them – to be able to continue living at home.

St. Charles School Provides Healing for Children

St. Charles School, formerly known as St. Charles Children’s Home, in Rochester recently completed its first year as a licensed special education provider for students, grades K to 8, who display severe behavioral, social and emotional challenges. The school’s philosophy is centered around building meaningful connections with students – and over time, helping them develop the positive behaviors and social skills to successfully reintegrate into traditional school environments.

Another Year of Healthcare Excellence

It was a banner year of quality excellence of our skilled nursing facilities!

Four of our administrators were named recipients of the 2019 Eli Pick Facility Leadership Award: Joe Bohunicky (Mt. Carmel), Brenda Buttrick (St. Francis), Jeffrey Lacroix (St. Vincent) and Marlene Makowski (St. Joseph Residence). Presented by the American College of Health Care Administrators, the Eli Pick Award honors a small group of administrators nationwide exemplifying leadership excellence and facility performance related to key health, safety and quality measures.

In addition, St. Teresa, St. Vincent and St. Joseph Residence received the AHCA/NCAL National Bronze Award for Commitment to Quality (2019), acknowledging superior commitment to the quality of care for seniors.

Providing Meals for Federal Workers Amid Government Shutdown

The partial government shutdown in January left many questions, uncertainty – and a temporary lack of income – for hundreds of federal workers across New Hampshire.

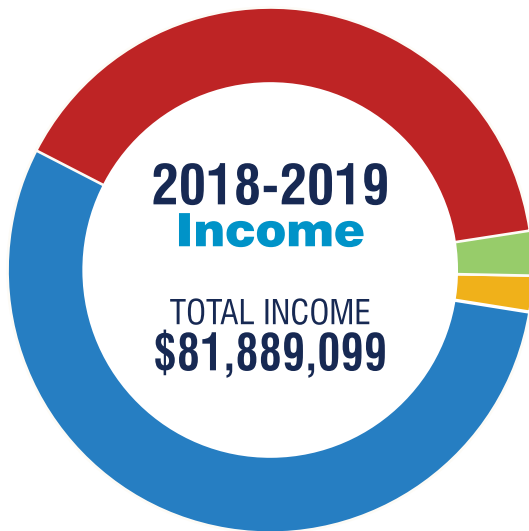

The New Hampshire Food Bank, a program of Catholic Charities New Hampshire, prepared and distributed meals to federal workers at Manchester-Boston Regional Airport (MHT). Workers also had the opportunity to take home boxed breakfasts and meal kits. Food was prepared through the Culinary Job Training Program at the New Hampshire Food Bank.

FEEDING THE PROGRAMS THAT FEED THE HUNGRY.

JASON FINDS HIS RECIPE FOR SUCCESS

It was 2008 when in a blink of an eye, I found myself struggling to find employment. I had just come out of a long-term relationship leaving behind a home, car, and beloved dogs when I learned that I would also be losing my job. At the time, I had been working as a Direct Care Counselor for a short-term shelter for teenage boys. Ultimately, the organization had decided to move the program out of the city.

I didn't have many choices due to limited transportation. I thought about going back to school and looked into job training but was turned down. In the eyes of unemployment, I had already received enough education.

At this point, my unemployment was close to running out, and so was my faith in finding work. Then I came across an ad for the NH Food Bank's Culinary Job Training Program, and that's when my whole life began to change. I had finally been given another chance.

I was eager to start. I would visit the kitchen almost every week to get an update on when I could begin. Once the course began, I was learning new skills daily and receiving a unique hands-on experience all while helping those in need. It was truly rewarding and opened the door to new opportunities for me.

"Jason was in our first ever Recipe for Success class. He was eager to work and stuck through all of the program's growing pains. Jason shared our passion for helping the community, and when he heard there was a plan for a Garden in the future, he was determined to be its keeper. He continued to push himself to learn and work hard each year, helping the NH Food Bank to produce more and more fresh food. His remarkable efforts to maintain our garden and provide great volunteer opportunities have helped feed many hungry people" – Jayson McCarter, Recipe for Success Chef Instructor

Today, I can proudly say I am back on my feet, happily married and the full-time Garden Coordinator for the NH Food Bank. The garden is in its 11th season, now a full acre and helps serve over 425 NH Food Bank partner agencies and programs. Just last year, we yielded a record 15,000 lbs of fresh produce for those in need thanks to the help of over 2,000 volunteers. I am truly grateful for where I am today, and it would not be possible without the chance I received from the NH Food Bank Culinary Job Training Program.

1 in 9 people are hungry. • 6% of seniors are hungry. • 12% of children are hungry.
